STREET STORIES

The high cost of living is not worrying certain gentlemen in the city who enjoy a good cigar after dinner. There are several who are regular smokers of dollar cigars that are now on sale at Thompson & Wortham's. That would seem to be rather expensive smoke, but they buy them just the same.

S. A. Mills, field clerk in charge of the United States Indian agent's office here, has a piece of petrified cottonwood, that was dug up on a creek bank near Hewitt, this county. The fiber of the wood shows plainly, as well as the bark of the tree.

A. C. Bagby who is a candidate for commissioner in the first ward, has been confined to his home since last Friday, with illness. He hopes to be out before the end of the week and will be joyfully mixing with the boys and hustling for votes.

S. A. Mills, field clerk in charge of the Indian agent's office here, is distributing among the Indian farmers in this district, pamphlets issued by the United States department of agriculture, treating upon every phase of farm work and crop growing. These pamphlets have been followed closely by a majority of the Indian farmers, and good results have been obtained.

Owing to the recent rains in this vicinity, the farmers have been compelled to suspend all farm work and those who reside close to the city have been here on business for the past few days.

Those who have orchards, state that the fruit has not been injured by the weather conditions this spring, and the indications are at present, that a big crop will be grown in this vicinity the coming season.

Local nurserymen state that a large number of trees have been delivered here since early fall and that many acres of orchards will be added to Carter county this season. Land owners are rapidly learning the value of an orchard, and most of them have one started at present.

Chas. J. Gill, one of the big land owners of the Hewitt community is an Ardmore visitor today.

W. T. Strange, representing the Oklahoma Hardware Company of Oklahoma City, is here calling on the hardware trade.

F. E. Pagerquist, hardware merchant at Ringling, was in the city, last night. Mr. Pagerquist says that his town is building rapidly and that business is very good.

Two Hundred Cars Daily.

The California fruit growers are now shipping 200 carloads of oranges a day which, figured as 400 boxes to the car, approximates 80,000 boxes daily. The market at this time is very active and retail prices reasonable. In fact, these prices are low for this season of the year, whereas the quality of the fruit is at its best.

"ARIZONA" ALL-STAR FEATURE, THEATRIUM FRIDAY

The All-Star Feature Corporation is new in the field, but it is putting out splendid pictures. Following is a short story of its organization and officers:

More than a year ago Harry R. Raver, then secretary and manager of an organization of ten film manufacturers, conceived the idea of producing well known plays in America with noted stars. His associates were asked to join the enterprise after weeks of consultation with stage celebrities who signified their willingness to appear in pictures. Two of the ten manufacturers held out, and no progress was made until the following spring, when Mr. Raver succeeded in interesting Archibald Selwyn, of Selwyn & company, and the American Play company; Philip Klein of the same company, and son of Charles Klein, the well known playwright; and George J. Cook of the Metro Lithograph company. In the formation of a company, Augustus Thomas was later persuaded to join the enterprise, and a charter was applied for. This was the first step, and the most important to safeguard the future of so gigantic an undertaking. The first release, "Arizona," is now ready for the screen as an indication of the All-Star Feature Corporation's ability to produce worthy motion pictures.

"Arizona," in six reels will be shown at the Theatrium tomorrow (Friday). This picture was made under the personal direction of its author, Augustus Thomas, and features Cyril Scott, supported by a powerful cast of well known characters.

Cash Echols SAVES YOU MONEY!*REVIEW OF CONGRESS

most stubborn filibuster in the history of the senate, created an insurgent movement in the democratic ranks and held up general legislation for weeks of the last session.

The immigration bill, including a literacy test for admission of aliens, which passed both houses, was vetoed by President Wilson and failed by a narrow margin to repass the house on a motion to overturn the veto.

Conservation measures urged by the president to provide a new system for leasing of water power sites and a leasing system to open the mineral resources of the country.

Bill to enlarge the measure of Philippine self-government and to extend promise of ultimate independence to Filipino people, a measure which passed the house and was approved by a senate committee.

Regulation by the interstate commerce commission of the issue of railroad securities, originally a part of the administration's anti-trust program.

Rural credit legislation contemplating the establishment of a system of farm mortgage loan banks, persistently urged throughout the congress.

In addition to the foregoing, scores of general legislative bills covering a wide range of subjects, died with the end of the congress, among them measures for federal road improvement, general waterway development, reorganization of the civil service, to prohibit importation of convict-made goods, and several measures for reorganization of the army.

The last session of congress was notable, too, for the failure of the two great issues, national prohibition and woman suffrage. Proposed constitutional amendments precipitated two of the most exciting legislative battles in the history of the house of representatives, both measures failing to receive a necessary two-thirds vote.

Foreign relations of the nation were constantly to the fore almost from the beginning of congress. The Mexican situation required close attention from the outset as has the European war. Throughout the session the president and the senate foreign relations committee were in frequent conferences and much was done to restrain unusual demonstrations which might have disturbed international tranquility. Early in the session general arbitration treaties with several great foreign powers were renewed for five-year periods, and 26 peace commission treaties pending for investigation of international disputes before resort to arms were negotiated and ratified. A treaty to enforce the regulations adopted by the London safety at sea conference was ratified last December with an amendment making reservations which came too late for either powers to consider, thus preventing enforcement of the convention. A treaty with Nicaragua providing for acquisition of the Nicaraguan canal route and naval stations for $3,000,000 was left unratified by the senate and the pending treaty with Colombia directing payment of $25,000,000 for the Panama canal strip was held in the foreign relations committee.

The closing session of the congress was almost wholly devoted to appropriation bills, the ship purchase bill fight, and a few general measures. Aside from appropriations, about the only important legislative enactments included the creation of the coast guard by consolidation of the life-saving and revenue cutter services; re-classification of grades in the diplomatic and consular service; requirement of regulations of and imposing special taxes upon all dealers, manufacturers or importers of opium, or its derivatives, and the creation of the Rocky Mountain national park in Colorado.

Much debate on the condition of national defenses enlivened the closing session. Proposals for special investigation of the preparedness of the nation for war all failed. House naval and military committees, however, conducted public hearings on the subject in connection with the military supply bills.

The congress also was marked by differences between President Wilson and some democratic senators over patronage; a spirited contest over confirmation of nominees for the federal reserve board; two successful filibusters—one in the summer session against the rivers and harbors bill and the other the fight of republicans and democratic allies against the ship purchase bill; an unsuccessful effort in the senate to establish a cloture rule to limit prolonged debate; institution of a special inquiry into outside influences exerted against the ship purchase bill; a general lobby investigation, which extended for many months, and proposal of an inquiry into senatorial campaign contributions.

With the fall of the gavel today many senators and congressmen long national figures passed into private life. Senators who retire are Root, of New York; Burton, Ohio; Perkins, California; Thornton, Louisiana; Bristow, Kansas; Stephenson, Wisconsin; Crawford, South Dakota; Camden, Kentucky; and White, Alabama. Representative Underwood leaves the house to go to the senate. Scores of representatives in the house give way to new members.

WEATHER MAN GETS HIS BUMPS FROM WORKERS

SEVERAL YOUNG LADIES SMILE AT HIS UNTIRING EFFORTS TO THWART THEM IN THEIR LAUDABLE PURSUIT.

How many sins of both commission and omission are laid at the door of the weather man! The attitude of some people recalls a little jingle which runs something like this:

"Most people are fools,
When it's hot they want it cool,
When it's cool they want it hot—
Always wanting what it's not."

You often hear people speak of "bad weather," as if anything which Nature does, is ever really bad. The philosophical, common sense individual realizes that the sort of weather which is usually termed "bad weather" is quite as much in accord with the eternal fitness of things as any other of the various brands of weather. Do you remember the reference the banished old Duke in "As You Like It" makes of the weather—"Nature's gentle counsellors which feelingly persuade us what we are."

The inclemency of the weather of the past few days has indeed "feelingly persuaded" the contestants what they are. One young lady came into the office yesterday from an out-of-town district bundled up in her big brother's macintosh, in the pockets of which she carried her receipt books with subscriptions—no, we can't tell you how many—but suffice to say, they were quite a few—all secured during the "bad weather." Her undaunted spirit and the logic of her remarks were quite an inspiration. She said: "You see, I believe that it is even easier to secure subscriptions when it is raining than when the weather is fairer, because at that time I find most of my business friends in their office, and little to do except to talk over the contest with me. I thus have a better opportunity to go into details with them and impress them with my chances, as they have fewer things to distract them upon such occasions. When it rains too hard, I evolve in my mind plans of operation, organize my forces by incessant 'phone conversations, and develop, as it were, strategic points."

Another contestant who is an aggressive worker, upon her return from a brief trip out of the city the other day, met an officer friend who in the pursuit of his duties in running down a "wily" booze peddler, captured not the dealer in joy-water, but a fine rain coat, which he presented to the young lady contestant. She is now wearing the coat which is of great practical utility, although fitting somewhat like the negro's dress suit—"fits all over, but touches nowhere."

Many are the experiences of the contestants, but for the most part they are pleasant experiences. Those who have worked diligently through the contest realize there is no magic wand to be waited in securing votes, but rather, it is energetic, enthusiastic, hard work through all kinds of weather, that counts, and which must ultimately be the real measure of success.

BRITISH BUYERS ORDERED TO GO HOME

BELIEVED THAT WITH OPENING OF THE DARDANELLES THERE WILL BE NO FURTHER NEED OF THEM HERE.

Chicago, March 3.—Four English army officers from Montana, Minnesota, Wyoming and California met here today on cable orders to return home at once. They interpreted their recall to mean that England believes the allied fleets, by forcing the Dardanelles, will enable the armies to utilize Russia's source of supplies.

They have been stationed in the west and northwest since the outbreak of the war buying horses, mules and food supplies.

"The significance of these orders," Captain Thomas R. Webb said, "is that the allied powers have begun to see the beginning of the end. Millions of dollars have been expended in the United States by Great Britain and France. The imminent forcing of the passage into the Black sea will put an end to this. Russia's immense surplus will be rushed to the western nations via the Mediterranean."

"THE LURE," MAJESTIC, FRIDAY.*Chickens or Gardens.

This is the season of discontent among the amateur gardeners of the city, they are discontented on account of their neighbors' chickens which have a touch of the wanderlust and devastate gardens other than their owners', and there seems to be nothing that will put a crimp in the practice. Ardmore has a chicken ordinance, but as it is not enforced, it might as well be off the statute books. Several people have made complaints and the cry has gone up asking that every chicken owner in the city take care of his fowls and prevent them from working in their neighbors' gardens.

"THE LURE," MAJESTIC, FRIDAY.*Jitneys at Gainesville.

Gainesville, Tex., March 3.—Gainesville at last has an interurban jitney car line. It was put on today between this city and Valley View, a distance of eight miles. Four round trips each day are made and if it proves a paying investment regular auto lines will be established to all towns in Cooke county.

Peter the Great.

What Alfred the Great is to early Britain, that Peter the Great, in his crude way, is to Russia. If ever a race of people found adequate expression in one person, that race was the Slavic race in their great czar.—Century.

"THE LURE," MAJESTIC, FRIDAY.*Overnight Relief For Constipation

When the bowels become clogged with a mass of poisonous stomach waste, sick headache with all its attendant misery, belching of sour stomach gases, bloated and general discomfort are sure to follow.

A mild, pleasant laxative-remedy that will carry off the congested mass without upsetting the stomach or griping the bowels, is the combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin sold in drug stores under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. A dose taken just before retiring will afford grateful relief next morning, without unpleasantness or discomfort.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is the ideal family remedy, especially for the women and children and old folks. A free trial bottle can be obtained by writing to Dr. M. B. Caldwell, 452 Washington St., Monticello, Ills.
